7)Simple,Complex and Compound sentences.

Simple sentences.

- A simple sentence should have at least one subject and one predicate.
- A simple sentence can have multiple subjects which can be combined using conjunctions. They are called compound subjects.
- Likewise, a simple sentence can also have compound predicates. Compound predicates have two or more verbs but they share the same subject/s.
- A simple sentence does not have a dependent clause or a subordinate clause but just one independent clause/main clause.
- A simple sentence should express a complete thought.

- A simple sentence can be a declarative sentence, an interrogative sentence or an exclamatory sentence. So punctuation marks like a full stop, a comma, a question mark and an - exclamation mark can be used in simple sentences.

- A simple sentence can have prepositions, adverbs, adjectives, adverb clauses and prepositional phrases.

Examples of Simple Sentences

I am a student at New York Academy of Dramatic Arts.

Abner, Ashwin and Karthi are going to Thailand for their vacation.

Suraj was singing and dancing.

This is a wonderful place!

I don't like milk.

I was waiting at the park.

Complex Sentences

- A complex sentence follows a particular structure. It should have at least one independent clause and one subordinate clause.

- When forming a complex sentence, make sure you use a subordinating conjunction to link them together. If the subordinating conjunction is used in between the two clauses, you need not use a comma before the conjunction. In case the subordinating conjunction appears in the beginning of a sentence forming a dependent clause, use a comma after it.

- You can also make use of relative pronouns to form relative clauses which are also subordinate clauses. That means, a sentence with a relative clause and an independent clause can also pass off as a complex sentence. When using a relative clause, make sure you enclose them within commas. They are mostly some extra information about the subject or object in the sentence.

Examples of Complex Sentences

- After I finish my work, I will be meeting my friend.

- Since you helped out, we completed everything in time.

- As soon as the initial introduction is over, we will have the prayer song.

- The children were asked to go home because it was too late.

- In the event of you being elected the Chairperson of the Students Union, what will you do for the benefit of the student community?
- The place, where we first met, will always be my favourite spot.
- Unless you make up your mind, nothing can be done.

Compound Sentences

- Remember that compound sentences are a combination of more than one main clause. A main clause or an independent clause is a clause that can stand by itself and pass off as a complete and meaningful sentence.
- Make sure you use a comma before the coordinating conjunction that links the two independent clauses. The coordinating conjunctions that can be used to link the clauses in a compound sentence are for, and, nor, but, or, yet, so.
- In some cases, you can also form a compound sentence without the use of a coordinating conjunction. When you do so, you have to place a semicolon in between the two main clauses.
- As far as capitalisation is concerned, you have to capitalise only the first letter of the first word in the compound sentence. Unless you are using proper nouns in the sentence, do not think of capitalising any other word.
- Note that you can also use conjunctive adverbs like however, anyway, meanwhile, likewise, otherwise, etc. to combine the main clauses to form a compound sentence. If you are using conjunctive adverbs, make sure you use a semicolon before it and a comma after it.

Examples of Compound Sentences

- All the employers have been requesting for a change in working hours for many months now; however, the company has not made any changes yet.
- My parents want me to become an IAS officer, but I want to become a teacher.
- My mom was too tired, yet she cleaned the house.

refers to the agreement between the subject and the verb. This is mainly with reference to singular and plural nouns/pronouns that act as subjects.

i) the use of a singular verb with a singular subject and a plural verb with a plural subject.

The subject can be a noun, a pronoun or even a noun phrase.

If it is a pronoun, the subject-verb agreement is done with reference to the person of the pronoun.

For example:

Rachel spends her free time listening to music. (Singular subject with singular verb)

Blaine and Kurt play the piano. (Plural subject with plural verb)

She likes to have a dessert after every meal. (Third person singular pronoun with singular subject)

ii) When using the 'be' form of verbs, there is an exception. In this case, the verb is used according to the number and person of the subject.

First person - singular - I - am - I am confident.

First person - plural - We - are - We are confident.

Second person - singular/plural - You - are - You are confident.

Third person - singular - He is - He is confident.

She - is - She is confident.

It - is - It is amazing.

Third person - plural - They are - They are confident.

iii) The use of 'have' and 'has' in the present perfect tense, the present perfect continuous tense and as a main verb is also dependent on the subject. All singular subjects use 'has' and all plural subjects use 'have'.

For example:

I have a younger brother.

You have taken the wrong cut.

Swetha has a pet dog.

William Shakespeare has written around 37 plays.

Finn has been waiting to talk to you about the test results.

iv)Compound subjects combined using the conjunction ‘and’ take a plural verb.

For example:

Krish and Radha are on their way to the airport.

Caren, Sheela and Akash have completed their assessments.

v)When more than one noun is joined by the conjunction ‘or’, the subject is considered to be singular and a singular verb is used.

For example:

Celery or spring onion works fine.

Your mom or dad has to be here in an hour.

vi)Sentences with pronouns such as anybody, anyone, no one, somebody, someone, everybody, everyone, nothing and nobody are treated as singular subjects and will therefore use a singular verb.

For example:

Nobody has understood anything.

Everyone was happy with the outcome.

Nothing fits me well.

No one finds the movie interesting.

vii) For sentences using 'either..or' and 'neither..nor', the verb should agree with the noun or pronoun that comes just before it.

For example:

Neither Ricky nor Gina is here yet.

Either the teacher or the students have to take an initiative to keep the classroom clean.

Neither the children nor their parents are aware of the consequences.

viii) When sentences have subjects like police, news, scissors, mathematics, etc. (nouns that are plural by default), the verb used should be plural.

For example:

The news of demonetisation shocks the entire nation.

The police have been looking for the culprits.

ix) When a negative sentence is written, the 'do' verb is used and it has to match the subject.

For example:

The children do not like working out trigonometry problems.

My father does not work at the bank anymore.

x) Interrogative sentences also take the help of the 'do' verb. As far as the subject-verb agreement of interrogative sentences is concerned, the first verb ('be' verb or 'do' verb) has to be aligned with the subject of the sentence.

For example:

Do you read thriller novels?

Doesn't she know you already?

Is Tina happy with the new house?

Were you looking for me?

Has Sharon submitted her final project yet?

xi) When you have sentences that begin with 'here', 'there', 'this', 'that', 'those', 'these', etc., always remember that the subject follows the verb and therefore the verb has to be conjugated with reference to the subject.

For example:

Here is your book.

There lies your shirt.

That was a great movie.

There have been many changes in the timetable.

xii) Abstract nouns and uncountable nouns are considered as singular subjects, so make sure you use a singular verb along with it.

For example:

Honesty is the best policy.

Love makes people do crazy things.

Good friendship keeps your mind and body healthy.

xiii) When the subject refers to a period of time, distance or a sum of money, use a singular verb.

For example:

1267 kilometres is too long for us to travel in half a day.

10 years is not considered optimum to go on the water slide.

Don't you think 1000 rupees is a little too much for a portrait?

xiv) The next rule is based on the use of collective nouns as subjects. Remember that when you have a collective noun as the subject of the sentence, the verb can be singular or plural based on the sentence and the context.

For example:

My family is settled in Australia.

All groups of participants have arrived.

xv) In sentences that have adjectives such as 'all', 'a lot of', 'lots of' or 'some' are used along with nouns to form a phrase that acts as the subject of the sentence, the verb is used according to the noun just before it.

For example:

All of my dresses have become tight.

A lot of food is left out.

Some of the books are torn and damaged.

xvi) When a sentence begins with 'each' or 'every' as the subject, it is considered singular and so the verb has to be singular too.

For example:

Each student has been asked to provide a consent letter.

Every teacher, parent and student is expected to work together.

xvii) When you are using a sentence to express a wish or a sentence expressing a request, verbs are used a little differently from other sentences.

For example:

I wish I were a bird.

If you were here, I would not be sad.

We request that everyone make their choices now.

v) Apostrophe(')

- The apostrophe, when used to show possession or ownership, should be placed just immediately after the noun or pronoun which is the owner of the mentioned object or person, followed by an 's'.
- If the noun or pronoun already has 's' as its last letter, the apostrophe comes after the letter 's'. Also, in this case, you need not add another 's' after the apostrophe as it is already understood.
- Another rule of using the apostrophe to show possession is that you should add an apostrophe and an 's' only to the second word in a hyphenated compound word.
- Also, if two or more nouns show separate ownership, you can use apostrophes for both the nouns. On the other hand, if both the nouns or pronouns own the same thing, use an apostrophe and an 's' at the end of the latter noun or pronoun.
- When using an apostrophe to indicate a missing letter or a number, the apostrophe is placed exactly in the space where the letter is missing. Also, remember that even if more than one letter or number is missing, you should add only one apostrophe and not as many apostrophes as the missing numbers or letters.
- An apostrophe can be used to form contractions like can't, I'm, don't, etc. In these contractions too, the apostrophe is placed in between the letters where the letters are missing.

Examples

Use of an Apostrophe to Show Possession

- Everyone keeps telling me that I am my mom's daughter in every way.

I am very excited to write to you about the long tour I will be going on along with my parents. We will be leaving on the 25th.

I will definitely write to you all about my trip – all the different places we visit, the variety of food we eat and the people we meet.

It would have been even more special if you had come along with me. We will make sure we plan out a trip once I am back home.

29th December, 2021

The Secretary

Residential Association

Mumbai – 400056

Subject: Complaint letter regarding the poor maintenance of the garden and improper waste disposal

Sir,

I am Shawn Mendez, a resident of Rory Lane. I am writing to bring to your notice the poor maintenance of the garden around our residential area and the improper disposal of waste. The garden around the residential area was watered regularly, and grass shrubs were trimmed and maintained neatly in the beginning. It has been more than a month now since any kind of maintenance is done in the garden. We have tried contacting the person in charge, but every effort has just been in vain.

Another growing issue is the problem of waste disposal. There were people from the corporation collecting garbage for disposal every two days, but it has been more than a week now since they have collected any garbage from our area. This has led to the accumulation of waste, and people have started dumping it in the corner of the street as they have no other choice. Kindly look into this and the maintenance of the garden as it would become a huge mess if this continues. It would be highly appreciated if you could also inform the residents that all garbage would be collected and not to throw them out around the street corners.

Thank you in advance.

Subject: Repair of the road in Cheran Nagar

Sir,

I would like to bring to your notice that the people in and around Cheran Nagar have been facing difficulties in travelling back and forth because of the bad condition of the roads there. We have appealed to the Municipality, but there has not been any response on the issue so far.

As our appeals to their office have had no effect, we believe that perhaps a mention in the media would be of great help. Since the beginning of the last month, the roads in Cheran Nagar have been almost impassable. The surface is badly broken up by the heavy rains, and on a dark night, it is positively dangerous for vehicles to pass that way. Moreover, there are heaps of road metal on both sides of the road, which leave very little room in the middle. The residents of the area have been inconvenienced in this way for weeks.

The situation is becoming worse. There have been multiple accidents happening due to this condition. I request you to highlight the seriousness of the matter in your newspaper so that the road may be properly repaired without further delay.

Thanking You

I was so glad to hear from my mother that you are back home after the trip. Hope you had a safe and enjoyable trip. I have been waiting to hear all about the trip from you.

Since this was the first time you have been to a foreign land, I guess every little bit of the trip was as exciting as you expected it to be. I have heard from my friends residing there that the place is extremely beautiful and that the people there are very endearing. However, I was worried when I knew that there were a few bomb blasts during your stay there. Hope all of you there were safe. I hope everything else was fine except for this.

I had spoken to your mother earlier, and she told me that you would be coming home after two weeks. I saw your pictures on Instagram as well. I can't wait to meet you and hear all your stories. Waiting eagerly for your reply.

3)Paragraph Writing

Paragraphs are the group of sentences combined together, about a certain topic. It is a very important form of writing as we write almost everything in paragraphs, be it an answer, essay, story, emails, etc

Writing a Paragraph

- Find a Topic Sentence: It is the first sentence which is an introduction to the given topic. It gives the main idea of what the paragraph would be about.
- Supporting details: These are the details that can be collected from various sources. It comprises information related to the topic that gives strong support to the main topic.
- Closing sentence: It is the last sentence that ends the paragraph and restates the whole idea of the paragraph. It is basically the concluding sentence that gives the basic idea of the whole topic

Types of paragraphs

i)Descriptive paragraphs

A general sentence should be used. This sentence conveys the subject of the paragraph to the reader. If this stage is completed, now it is the second stage! The descriptive description should be made starting from the outside of the subject that will be explained in detail in the second stage. In short, the details should be listed from general to specific. And at the last stage, it is necessary to summarize the subject of the paragraph in one sentence and convey ideas.

To write a beautiful descriptive paragraph, different and interesting adjectives should be used. Thus, the taste, smell, sound, and vision abilities of the reader begin to work. Thus, the written paragraph will delight the reader. At the same time, the reader will be able to fully feel and visualize the subject to be told.

Examples :

EXAMPLE OF A DESCRIPTIVE PARAGRAPH ABOUT PERSON

It is very important to have close friends because they will always be there and they will not let you go. My close friend's name is Deniz and he is a very important person to me. He is tall and has broad shoulders. He stands like a hero protecting the person next to him. He has a fit body, just like a statue. The features on his face look too pronounced and he has a small nose. His dark green eyes look harsh, like a dark forest. His lashes are like lined arrows. He has neatly lined pearly teeth. When he smiles, he looks like a little boy. Seeing him happy all the time is the biggest thing I want.

EXAMPLE OF A DESCRIPTIVE PARAGRAPH ABOUT OBJECT

Yesterday I saw a plant in the corner of the park where I was constantly walking. The plant was much taller than my height, enough to touch the sky. Its body stood like a straight pole, it was thin. It had light green leaves. It was the most beautiful green I have ever seen, it was shining. Around, it was trees whose leaves looked like the leaves of the tree I had seen, but they were smaller. The tree I noticed stood in the middle, like the leader of all of them, and was self-evident. It was the most delicate and powerful plant I have ever seen in my life.

EXAMPLE OF A DESCRIPTIVE PARAGRAPH ABOUT PLACE

I saw the most beautiful bay I have ever seen in my life. As I was descending from the mountain towards the sea, I suddenly looked in front of me and saw the yellow sand like gold. The sun was right overhead and it was very hot. The sands would almost catch fire. Then the deep blue sea was merging with the sky. The sea was so clear that I could see colorful fish swimming between my feet. This was the place that fascinated me the most.

EXAMPLE OF A DESCRIPTIVE PARAGRAPH ABOUT EVENT

So much time has passed but I still haven't forgotten it. When I was a kid, we had a house in the village. It was a two-story house with a tile roof. One day we went there again with my family. I went into my room with a big brown bag in my hand. It smelled of dampness, I wanted to open my window immediately. Just then I heard a voice as if there was a crying baby in my room. I was very scared but I couldn't even move. I started crying where I was. My parents were in the garden so they didn't hear my voice. I couldn't go anywhere because of my fear, I sat on the floor I was crying. The sound I was hearing was starting to get louder. I was starting to scream. My father ran up the stairs and came up to me. I told him I was hearing voices from where the locker was. The voices were no longer heard. We walked towards the closet together. My dad opened the door of the closet and let's see what! The mother cat gave birth to her children inside. All those voices came from the pain. We built a nice home for the mother cat and her three little kittens. Because I was so small, I was terrified of the sound. Yet there was nothing to be afraid of.

ii) Narrative paragraph

A narrative paragraph is similar to story telling , it refers to accounts of personal experience.

Examples :

The Funniest incident in my life:

The most hilarious (funniest) thing that has ever happened to me is when I and my family decided to prank my father, and convince him that I caught the coronavirus. At the beginning, we waited for my father to get back home. As soon as he arrived, I started to cough and pretend that I had breathing difficulties, and my mother told him that I am not feeling well. My father was really confused, and he called my brother. A few moments later, my father tried to call the local health authorities. Suddenly, my mother stopped him. My father did not know what to do, and he told everyone not get near me. At the end, he decided to lock me in my own room. Finally, we told him the truth and everyone started to laugh. All in all, it was a very nice moment that made us forget about the global issue for a while.

An Unforgettable Experience in my life:

Last weekend, I had the best experience of my life. On Friday night, my best friend visited me and we made a delicious pizza. After we ate, we had a friendly video game competition. After a while, my other best friend, Ali, joined us. On Saturday, my dad took us out on the boat. The weather was perfect and the water was warm. It was a great day to go for a swim. Later in the evening, we went to the movies. We saw an action film and ate a lot of popcorn. Then that night, we spent some time playing chess. Finally, on Sunday, we went bike-riding around town. All in all, we had great moments. Now, with this experience, I've changed my opinion about weekends. Now I have to say that weekends can only be as exciting and fun as we'd make them be.

iii) Technical/Definitive Paragraph

Technical words are used

Surfing the Internet

The Internet can be a huge and scary informational jungle for a non-expert. Given the enormous amount of information that the internet contains, this is no surprise. There are things that one can do though, to make their quest for knowledge easier. When looking for a specific item in this cyberactive library it is easier to have a plan, and then focus on a particular subject. Most likely, using a search tool will be your first means of finding what it is that you need. When using a search tool for the first time it is best to develop a general understanding of it. First, get to know how it works, and the type of language used when dealing with it. For example, each search tool usually has its own unique criteria, thus making the search for information that much more difficult. Responses to a particular query can vary greatly from search tool to search tool. Also the same query sent by the same inspection tool may come up with various responses from day to day, because web pages are constantly being added, removed, and updated.

Solar energy

All life on Earth receives its energy from the sun. Solar energy is what we get from the sun; it comes to us in the form of tiny light particles called photons. All types of microorganisms and single-celled organisms were created with the help of solar energy, and plants have been using this energy since the beginning of time. As a result, every living thing on Earth is directly or indirectly dependent on the sun. Since solar energy is entirely renewable, it is available as long as there is sunlight. Because no harmful gases, chemicals, or fly ash are produced, it is also pollution-free. Using photovoltaic cells, solar energy can be transformed into thermal or electrical energy. Solar energy has no production costs.

But there are some drawbacks to solar energy. For instance, solar energy can be harnessed for various activities only during the day when there is sufficient sunlight available. When compared to conventional power plants with the same capacity, the cost of installing solar energy panels is very high, and the amount of energy produced here is very low. However, as science and technology advance, we can harness solar energy and use it as our primary energy source.

iv) comparison and contrast paragraph

A comparison-contrast paragraph has three main parts. The topic sentence introduces two subjects and says something about them. The body sentences give details about how the two subjects are alike and different. The ending sentence sums up how the subjects are the same or different.

BMX Bikes Versus Mountain Bikes

BMX bikes and mountain bikes are built in different ways. BMX bikes are great for tricks because they have a low, light frame and short tires. Mountain bikes have a high, heavy frame and thick tires. This makes them great for off-road riding on bumpy surfaces. Another way the two types of bikes differ is the number of gears. Mountain bikes have many different gears, but BMX bikes normally have just one gear. The number of gears relates to the main difference between the two bikes. BMX bikes are built in a way that lets riders do tricks, while mountain bikes are built for off-road riding, including up and down hills.

v) cause and effect paragraph

Cause-effect paragraphs seek to illustrate the relationship(s) between two or more events by revealing why or how something happened. Therefore, it's not enough simply to state the cause(s) and the effect(s).

- It is about either causes or effects. In one paragraph, you cannot address both. You should say early in your paragraph whether you are talking about causes or effects.
- It is about a topic that is easily managed in one paragraph. In the paragraph you have just read, the author discusses only animals in shelters—this is a small enough topic that it can be covered in one paragraph.
- It recognizes the complexity of the situation. There is often more than one cause for an event or situation, and there is often more than one result. The results can be positive, negative, or both. In the sample paragraph, the writer understands and shows that pets end up in shelters for a variety of reasons.
- It is sufficiently detailed. As with all good paragraphs, don't make your reader guess what you want to say. Give examples.

Example:

Effects of Automobiles

"I worry about the private automobile. It is a dirty, noisy, wasteful, and lonely means of travel. It pollutes the air, ruins the safety and sociability of the street, and exercises upon the individual a discipline which takes away far more freedom than it gives him. It causes an enormous amount of land to be unnecessarily abstracted from nature and from plant life and to become devoid of any natural function. It explodes cities, grievously impairs the whole institution of neighborliness, fragmentizes and destroys communities. It has already spelled the end of our cities as real cultural and social communities, and has made impossible the construction of any others in their place. Together with the airplane, it has crowded out other, more civilized and more convenient means of transport, leaving older people, infirm people, poor people and children in a worse situation than they were a hundred years ago."

4)Report Writing

Report writing is writing detailed accounts on a given topic based on specific information or evidence given about it.

The report should contain :

- The brief details of the event
- Consequences and effects of the event
- Evaluation of statistical data and analytics
- Interpretations from the information
- How the information is relevant to other events

i)Accident report

Report on Fire Accident in a Mall

On the 13th of May, 2022, around 11:30 in the morning, a fire broke out in the Galaxy Mall at Sarojini Nagar, Delhi. The entire area around the mall was covered with thick black smoke. Everyone from the mall was evacuated before the fire engulfed a major portion of the mall. The manager of the mall had called the firefighters to put out the fire. The locals tried to put out the fire but their efforts were of no use. Six fire-engines arrived within 10 minutes and, for the next two hours, tried their best to put out the fire. Due to the presence of flammable things like clothes, plastic, etc. in the mall, the fire spread quite fast. The people living near the mall were asked to leave their houses to ensure that no civilians got injured. After struggling to put out the fire for two hours, finally, the firefighters were able to bring the fire under control. Three of the firefighters were injured during this operation, and they were taken to the nearest hospital. The Chief Minister, SDO, and Chief of firefighters had also arrived at the site of the fire accident. Though the fire was finally put out after long hours of struggle, most of the shops inside the mall were completely destroyed. The firefighters reported that the fire accident took place at such a massive scale due to a short circuit and the absence of adequate fire safety equipment. The Chief Minister issued a statement thanking the firefighters for their job and assuring to help the shopkeepers who had lost their shops to restart their businesses.

Report on Fire Accident in a House

Around 8:00 p.m. on Monday, a fire broke out in a two-storied house in Rajendra Nagar, Mumbai. Luckily, the members of the house were not present in the house when the fire started. The neighbours who had noticed smoke coming from the house had called the fire brigade. Until the fire brigade arrived, the neighbours tried to put out the fire. The residents of the burning house too had arrived, but were stopped by the locals from entering the house. Two fire brigades arrived within 10 minutes and sprang into action. The officers asked the people living near the burning house to leave their homes and come out to avoid any kind of mishap. After an hour of struggle, the fire was finally put out, but a major portion of the house had been burnt down. One of the firefighters reported that the reason for the fire breakout was not clear and that they would need to investigate further. The affected family members were asked to stay somewhere else till the investigation gets over.

ii) Survey report

The survey report is a document whose purpose is to convey the information acquired during the survey in its whole and objectively. The report includes all of the results that were gathered. The following are included in the full survey report: Completion Rate.

1. Start with an introduction
2. Use visualizations
3. Focus on key facts first
4. Categorize results
5. Summarize your findings
6. Integrate company branding

Example:

Survey report on the use of pesticides

Present investigation was undertaken to study the pattern of pesticide usage, management, their health effects on farmers and the perception of farmers' regarding the same. A survey was conducted among 100 farmers in cauliflower and tomato cultivating areas of district Faridabad, Haryana, India from December 2012 to February 2013. Data was collected by means of structured questionnaire, formal and informal interviews, group discussions etc. Chi-square test was used to establish the relation between education level of farmers and safety measures adopted by them for pesticide usage and the age of farmers and health problems due to pesticide exposure. Cypermethrin (62%) and profenofos (58%) were found as the most popular insecticides while captan (74%) and carbendazim (53%) were the most widely used fungicides by the farmers in this area. However, biological pesticides like azadirachtin (34%) and Bacillus thuringiensis (16%) were also observed to have gained considerable acceptance among the vegetable cultivators though they were reported less efficient in comparison to chemical pesticides. Manual application was reported as the method of choice for pesticide application by 70% farmers and 56% of the farmers confirmed that no requisite safety measures and precautions were adopted while applying the pesticides. Choice of pesticide was primarily based on efficiency for pest/pathogen (s) control. Pesticide spray even during harvesting was found in 16% of the cases. Education was observed to influence the approach of the farmers towards adopting requisite protective measures however no association was found between the age of the farmers and the health effects of pesticide.

iii) Report on Industrial Visit

A REPORT ON ONE DAY INDUSTRIAL VISIT

Place of visit: Rashtriya Blood Centre (RBC)

Date: 21st August 2019.

A batch of 5th semester students of Department of Medical Electronics along with faculty Dr. Manisha Joshi visited Rashtriya Blood Centre Lab at Basavangudi in Bangalore. This visit was mainly focussed on to understand the procedures involved during blood donation, the technology and the equipments used. Students were split into two groups. Dr. Sumithra Medical officer there explained about the facilities available inside the centre, their methods of collecting blood, the equipments used for the extraction of certain blood components and their storage and Single Donor Platelets (Apheresis) unit. She also explained about the maintenance of the equipment and ethics considered during blood storage and disposal. After the tour, a presentation was arranged about the SURAKSHA a day care centre for kids suffering from thalassemia that is run along with the blood centre.

5)Extended Definitions

An extended definition takes a term, concept or idea and defines it in great detail. An extended definition essay may consider the structure, function, or underlying meaning of the topic at hand.

Example :

Wi-Fi

Wi-Fi is the wireless local network between nearby devices, such as wireless routers, computers, smartphones, tablets, or external drives. It is part of the LAN (local area network) protocols and has largely replaced the wired Ethernet option. When your device has Wi-Fi turned on, it can find the nearest router. If the router is connected to a modem and works with an Internet service provider (ISP), your device can now access the Internet and other devices on the network. Wi-Fi covers a much more limited area than a cell phone tower. However, Wi-Fi does not use expensive cellular data like LTE or 4G.

Many people believe that Wi-Fi is short for “wireless fidelity.” The founding members of Wireless Ethernet Compatibility Alliance needed a name that was easier to remember than “wireless ethernet,” and much easier than Wi-Fi’s actual original name, “IEEE 802.11b Direct Sequence.” They added the slogan “The Standard for Wireless Fidelity,” but dropped it after people mistook the meaning of Wi-Fi.

Bravery

Bravery is the mindset one takes when facing a challenge that could be dangerous or difficult. The task could be objectively dangerous, such as engaging in battle or driving in adverse conditions. A person could also perceive a seemingly harmless situation as challenging, such as climbing a flight of stairs or talking to someone they'd like to date. A brave act requires one to face and embrace the task rather than withdraw from it.

There are examples of bravery in every community. Look no farther than your local fire station or police station to see acts of bravery. Community heroes help others in small and large ways every day, often at great risk to their own lives. Students are brave when they stand up to a bully or present a project in front of the whole class. Practicing small acts of bravery can prepare a person to lead a heroic life.

- 6.Select the required programme
- 7.Close all the files after finishing the work
- 8.Switch off the system

7)Describing a Process

Process description means writing about how something is made or how something happens. A process description is usually written in passive voice. The goal of writing a process description is to provide a general introduction to how something works.

Examples:

Making Tea

Firstly, one cup of water is boiled in a vessel. Then, one teaspoon of tea leaves is added to it. Let the tea brew along with water and rest it for 5 minutes. Next, the brew is strained into a cup. Lastly, as per taste half cup milk and sugar, or lemon juice with sugar is added to taste and stirred thoroughly. Finally, the tea is served.

Making Pasta

Firstly, a bowl of pasta is taken and washed. A deep vessel is filled with water and later salt is added to it. Let the water to be boiled and pasta is added to it. The pasta is strained in the strainer when it is three fourth cooked. Let it be rested for few minutes. In the meantime, the oil is heated in the pan. Chopped garlic and tomatoes are added to it. Lastly boiled pasta is added and mixed along with the grated cheese is added on the top. Finally, the pasta is enjoyed.

Process for recycling plastic

Step 1 – Collection

Plastic waste is growing by the ton every day. Using a country-wide network for collection of plastic waste through rag pickers, waste collectors and waste dealers and recycling enterprises this plastic waste is collected and brought to the Sorting facilities for further processing.

Step 2 – Sorting

This second step is the most crucial one as the actual plastic recycling process starts with Sorting. Sorting of different plastics occurs based on:

Color

Resin Content

Plastic Recycling Code

Sorting helps identify and eliminate contaminants. The process may employ manual methods or the use of specifically designed machines.

Step 3 – Shredding

Once the recyclable plastics have been sorted, they go through the shredder. The shredder grinds and cuts the plastics into tiny pieces. After going through shredding, heavier and lighter plastics are separated using specially designed machines. This separation helps segregate different plastics.

Step 4 – Cleaning

The process of Sorting and Shredding ensures that the correct types of plastics are being processed and assorted together for further processing. After a complete separation, the flakes or chunks are then washed thoroughly with detergents to remove the remaining contamination.

Following the cleaning process, the plastic flakes are subjected to moderate heat so that they can dry.

Step 5 – Melting

Post drying, the plastic flakes are melted down under regulated temperatures. The regulation of temperatures ensures that the plastics are melted without getting destroyed. On melting, these plastics are extruded and resized to be processed in to granules which will later be compressed into pellets.

Step 6 – Pellet Making

To enable the plastics to be reusable processed granules are compressed into tiny pellets. These pellets are also known as nurdles. Pellets also enables in storing similar types of plastics based on color, types of resin along with easy distribution.

Step 7 – Re-Using

It is important to note that, pellets recycled from particular types of plastics cannot to be re-used to make the same kinds of plastics. Instead they are re-purposed and redesigned in to other useful products

8)Note making

Effective note makers are efficient learners. Effective note making is a skill that each person develops over time and with practice to suit their own style of working. You will find some ideas to help you start on this path in this section.

Read the following passage carefully and make notes.

Most robots of today consist of little more than a mechanical arm and a computer memory. The memory allows the arm to repeat a simple motion like moving a part from one work-bench to another. Because its memory can store a collection of such motions, the robot can switch quickly from one simple task to another. It will not complain of boredom, balk at job demarcation lines, takes as tea-break or go sick.

This faithful servant is also a stupid one. It has no problem-solving intelligence. Also it lacks our senses that would alert it. If say, the part that it was meant to pick up was upside down - or not there at all. A robot is less capable than a man groping in the dark. At least a man can tell by touch if he merely bumps into something.

Although robots are gradually gaining more senses and more brains, today's growth in robotics has come about largely because industry has learnt how to accommodate these mindless, mechanical workers. The automobile industry, which employs some sixty percent of the world's 20,000 robots, has been leading the way to applications.

That should be no surprise. Assembly-line production is repeated with the sort of simple, repetitive jobs that robots can do so well. Robots are being put to work loading and unloading conveyors, welding car bodies together and spray - painting the finished product. Parts of a car have long been carried to human workers on conveyor belts. It takes only a bit of careful engineering to ensure that the parts sent along to robots are presented in precisely the same position each time. Given that accommodation to their senseless, robots can boost productivity with their untiring speed, and boost quality with their mindless ability to do the same job in exactly the same way every time. Even smaller manufacturers are finding, places for robots in their factories. Some are simply using robots to perform tasks like loading and unloading moulds and presses, which are similar to the jobs, jobs robots do in assembly-line plants.

Read the following passage carefully and make notes.

The work of the heart can never be interrupted. The heart's job is to keep oxygen rich blood flowing through the body. All the body's cells need a constant supply of Oxygen, especially those in the brain. The brain cells live only four to five minutes after their oxygen is cut off, and death comes to the entire body.

The heart is a specialized muscle that serves as a pump. This pump is divided into four chambers connected by tiny doors called valves. The chambers work to keep the blood flowing round the body in a circle.

At the end of each circuit, veins carry that blood to the right atrium, the first of the four chambers. $\frac{2}{5}$ oxygen by then is used up and it is on its way back to the lung to pick up a fresh supply and to give up the carbon dioxide it has accumulated. From the right atrium the blood flows through the tricuspid valve into the second chamber, the right ventricle. The right ventricle contracts when it is filled, pushing the blood through the pulmonary artery, which leads to the lungs - in the lungs the blood gives up its carbon dioxide and picks up fresh oxygen. Then it travels to the third chamber the left atrium. When this chamber is filled it forces the blood through a valve to the left ventricle. From here it is pushed into a big blood vessel called aorta and sent round the body by way of arteries.

Heart diseases can result from any damage to the heart muscle, the valves or the pacemaker. If the muscle is damaged, the heart is unable to pump properly. If the valves are damaged blood cannot flow normally and easily from one chamber to another, and if the pacemaker is defective, the contractions of the chambers will become un-coordinated.

Until the twentieth century, few doctors dared to touch the heart. In 1953 all this changed after twenty years of work, Dr. John Gibbon in the USA had developed a machine that could take over temporarily from the heart and lungs. Blood could be routed through the machine bypassing the heart so that surgeons could work inside it and see what they were doing. The era of open heart surgery had begun.

In the operation theatre, it gives surgeons the chance to repair or replace a defective heart. Many parties have had plastic valves inserted in their hearts when their own was faulty. Many people are being kept alive with tiny battery operated pacemakers; none of these repairs could have been made without the heart -lung machine. But valuable as it is to the surgeons, the heart lung machine has certain limitations. It can be used only for a few hours at a time because its pumping gradually damages the blood cells.

Answer:

9)Recommendations

Recommendation is a suggestion or proposal as to the best course of action, especially one put forward by an authoritative body.

Example

1. Write eight set of recommendations to attend the interview.

- 1) You should dress neatly.

10) Interpretation of graphics

i) Pie chart

Analyse the given two pie charts and write a paragraph about it :

The pie chart depicts the use of different sources of energy in the USA in two decades – 1980s and 1990s. An overview of the diagram shows that the major source of energy in the USA was oil in both decades, and the use of nuclear power as a source of energy doubled in just ten years.

The graphs show that oil was the main energy source for the USA which was used to produce 42% energy in the 1980s and 33% in 1990s. It shows that oil produced energy declined in 1990. Around one-fourth of energy in the USA came from natural gas both in these decades. The use of nuclear power as a source of energy increases and it produced 10% energy in the 1990s which was double than the percentage of energy production from this source in the previous decade. The production of energy from coal in the 1980s was around 22% and it increases by 5% in 1990s. It is very surprising to notice that the production of energy from hydroelectric power remained the same (i.e. 5%) in both decades.

ii) Bar graph

Analyse the bargraph and write a paragraph about it

The bar graph outlines the proportion of Arab citizens who are connected to the Internet and use computers. Generally speaking, the UAE and Kuwait have by far the highest ratio of netizens, citizens who have access to the computer and Internet technology, while it was the lowest in Egypt and Syria.

As the diagram suggests, around one-third of the UAE citizens have access to the Internet, a ratio which is quite higher than their computer possessions. Kuwait in terms of its internet and computer users stood at the second position but has a significantly lower number of netizens when compared to that of the UAE. Besides, roughly 10% Kuwaitis own computers and use the Internet. Lebanese Internet users were somewhat higher than their ratio of computer owners and only 50 out of thousand Lebanese owned computers and their Internet users' ratio was slightly higher. Interestingly computer ownership in Saudi Arabia was roughly 0.7% and the Internet users were even lower. Finally, computer and the Internet users in the remaining Arab countries like Morocco, Jordan, Oman and Syria were fewer than 0.5% and this depicts a dismal figure in terms of computer and Internet technology penetration in these countries.

11) Essay Writing

Essays are pieces of writing that are longer than just a paragraph but not quite as long as a full-length book. Essay writing is an excellent way for students to demonstrate their understanding of the course material.

Examples of essay :

1)Essay on Reading

Reading is a key to learning. It's a skill that everyone should develop in their life. The ability to read enables us to discover new facts and opens the door to a new world of ideas, stories and opportunities. We can gather ample information and use it in the right direction to perform various tasks in our life. The habit of reading also increases our knowledge and makes us more intellectual and sensible. With the help of this essay on the Importance of Reading, we will help you know the benefits of reading and its various advantages in our life. They are the abundance of knowledge and are best friends of human beings. We get to know about every field and area by reading books related to it. There are various types of books available in the market, such as science and technology books, fictitious books, cultural books, historical events and wars related books etc. Also, there are many magazines and novels which people can read anytime and anywhere while travelling to utilise their time effectively.

Benefits of Reading for Students

Reading plays an important role in academics and has an impactful influence on learning. Researchers have highlighted the value of developing reading skills and the benefits of reading to children at an early age. Children who cannot read well at the end of primary school are less likely to succeed in secondary school and, in adulthood, are likely to earn less than their peers. Therefore, the focus is given to encourage students to develop reading habits.

Reading is an indispensable skill. It is fundamentally interrelated to the process of education and to students achieving educational success. Reading helps students to learn how to use language to make sense of words. It improves their vocabulary, information-processing skills and comprehension. Discussions generated by reading in the classroom can be used to encourage students to construct meanings, and connect ideas and experiences across texts. They can use their knowledge to clear their doubts and understand the topic in a better way. The development of good reading habits and skills improve students' ability to write.

Conclusion

In today's world of the modern age and digital era, people can easily access resources online for reading. The online books and availability of ebooks in the form of pdf have made reading much easier. So, everyone should build this habit of reading and devote at least 30 minutes daily. If someone is a beginner, then they can start reading the books based on the area of their interest. By doing so, they will gradually build up a habit of reading and start enjoying it.

2) Daily Routine Essay

In our life, we should strictly follow a daily routine. Maintaining and following a daily routine benefits you healthwise and makes life more convenient. Parents can help their children by studying their daily routine and providing inputs to improve their quality of life. As a parent, keep your kids interested in following their daily activities, and teach them to follow the daily routine. It will make them more productive in their activities.

People who follow their daily routine achieve success in their life. So, maintain a daily routine to complete your work on time without pressure. Students should follow their daily routine to complete their homework on time and achieve great results.

My Daily Routine Essay

I prepared my daily routine with the help of my mother and father. I will share my daily activities and the experience I gain from them in this essay.

I am a morning person and consider it the most productive time of the entire day. In the morning, nature looks so calm and peaceful. Even my parents and teachers suggested waking up early in the morning. I respected their suggestion and followed it.

So, I get up at 6 a.m., brush my teeth, and wash my face with water. After that, I go for a quick stroll in the park. I consider a morning walk essential for a healthy lifestyle. I walk for almost half an hour and also do some exercise. After doing the morning walk, I come back home and freshen up. It keeps me strong and active for the entire day.

Then I eat my breakfast, and after that, I study Science and Maths in the morning. I consider morning the best time to study, and it helps you memorise the concepts and topics efficiently.

School Time

Around 9 a.m., I get ready to go to school. My father drives me to school, and at around 1 p.m., I get my lunch break after four continuous classes. My school gets over by 4 p.m., and my mother comes to pick me up. Every day, she comes because it takes 20 minutes to reach my home from my school by car. I love going to school and learning new things.

For me, school time is the best time. I get to spend time with my friends and play games during recess. My best friend's name is Anne; she always stands beside me in good and bad times. I love her so much and will never break my friendship with her. To me, she's more than just a friend, she's my family.

Eat and Sleep Routine

When I go to school, I carry my lunch with me. I have my lunch during recess. My mother knows what I love and prepares lunch accordingly. My favourites are pizzas and burgers but my mom doesn't let me eat from outside. So, she prepares it by herself and I love the food she cooks.

At night I watch TV with my family for some time, and around 10 p.m., I go to bed. When I go to bed, I think about my entire day, and sometimes I read novels or story books.

Holiday Routine

When it's vacation time, my daily routine differs. I get a lot of spare time. I spend time playing video games, going out with friends and family, and visiting my grandparents. Sometimes I enroll myself in summer vacation camps.

Conclusion of Daily Life Essay

That's all about my daily routine. I always try to follow this routine. But sometimes, I need to bring some changes to the routine. And when I spend holidays and off days from school, I can't follow this routine. I think this routine is helping me to use my time efficiently and to complete my study tasks correctly.

3) Essay on Unemployment

Unemployment is a serious problem among young people. There are thousands of people who do not have any work to do and cannot find work for themselves. Unemployment is measured by the unemployment rate, defined as the number of people actively looking for a job as a percentage of the labour force. The unemployment rate for the year 2013-14 in rural India was 4.7%, whereas it was 5.5% for urban India. In the short term, unemployment significantly reduces a person's income and, in the long term, it reduces their ability to save for retirement and other goals. Unemployment is a loss of valuable productive resources to the economy. The impact of job loss in rural and regional areas flows through the local community, damaging businesses.

Reason for Unemployment

An unemployed person is one who is an active member of the labour force and is seeking work but is unable to find any work for himself. There are multiple reasons behind the unemployment of a person. One of them is the slow economic growth due to which jobs in adequate numbers are not created. Excessive dependence on agriculture and slow growth of non-farm activities also limit employment generation. Unemployment in urban areas is mainly the result of substantial rural migration to urban areas. This has also resulted in a labour workforce in cities. The lack of technology and proper machinery has also contributed to unemployment.

The present educational system is based on theoretical knowledge instead of practical work. Thus, it lacks the development of aptitude and technical qualifications required for various types of work among job seekers. This has created a mismatch between the need and availability of relevant skills and training. This results in unemployment, especially among the youth and educated people with high degrees and qualifications. Apart from it, the lack of investment and infrastructure has led to inadequate employment opportunities in different sectors.

Steps to Eliminate Unemployment

Various strategies and proposals have been implemented to generate employment. Many Employment programmes and policies have been introduced and undertaken to boost self-employment and help unemployed people engage in public works. The Government of India has taken several policy measures to fight the problem of unemployment. Some of the measures are the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MGNREGA), National Skill Development Mission, Swarna Jayanti ShahariRozgar Yojana (SJSRY), Regional Rural Banks (RRBs).

Despite the measures taken by the government, India remains a country experiencing severe unemployment problems. It can be resolved by imparting education in such a way that youth get the necessary skills, so as to get employment easily. Setting up various vocational training and vocational courses for undergraduate and postgraduate students will help in finding employment for youth. The government needs to emphasise these courses at the primary level and make them a compulsory part of the curriculum to make students proficient in their early stages of life. Career Counseling should be provided within schools and colleges so that students can choose a better career option based on their interests and ability. Government should create more job opportunities for the youth and graduates.

Conclusion

India is a fast-growing economy. There is an enormous scope for improvement in the unemployment sector. The various measures and steps taken by the government to increase the employment rate have succeeded to a great extent. The widespread skill development programmes have gained popularity across the nation. With better enforcement of the strategies, the employment level can be significantly improved. Although, we have to go a long way before we can say that all the people in India will get employment.
